

Hull Library Series

Your story can take you on a journey!

Join a DCR Park Ranger for a story hour focused on the winter season at the Hull Library. We'll be learning about plants and animals in winter, snowy day activities, and winter festivities. The following week, we'll be headed to Fort Revere Park for an activity focusing on what we learned.

Webb Winter Walk

Every 4th Saturday, Jan - Mar, 10:00am

Put on your winter boots or snowshoes and join DCR Park Ranger for a walk through Webb State Park. The walk will focus on the variety of uses of the peninsula beginning with Native American usage until its present condition as a state park.

Make sure to bring tons of warm clothes to fight off that chilly New England breeze. All ages are encouraged to attend.

The Hull Observation Tower is Open to the Public

If the cold weather has not taken your breath away, the view from the Hull Observation Tower will. Join a DCR Park Ranger for an introduction to the Boston Harbor Islands and take in some incredible 360 degree views. (Weather permitting)

The tower will be open on the 1st Saturday of every month from 10-12pm starting in January 2009.

For more information, or tower status please call 781.740.1605 x205

Winter Shorebirds on Nantasket Beach

January 31st, 2009, 9:00am

Despite the near frigid weather, many species of birds populate the coastal areas of Massachusetts and visit the shores of Nantasket beach. If the birds can tolerate New England in January, maybe you will consider joining fellow nature lovers and bird enthusiasts for a casual stroll along the beach. Join a DCR Park Ranger and fellow bird enthusiasts on this open forum to showcase your shorebird knowledge and even take in something new on our winter outing.

Connell Memorial Rink & Pool

Come down and try your luck with a pair of ice skates at the Connell Memorial Rink. The rink is open for public skating sessions and is totally free.
